FLORENCE VIDOR IS FINELY CAST IN "BEAU REVEL"

Beautiful Actress Has Leading Woman's Role in Latest Thomas H. Ince Production.

Florence Vidor, who plays the leading feminine role in the latest Paramount-Ince picture, "Beau Revel," which comes to the Washington Theater on Thursday, is cast to excellent advantage as Nellie Steele, the hub of the conflict of emotions between Beau Revel, portrayed by Lloyd Hughes. Miss Vidor's distinctive beauty and rare gift of personality contribute a wealth of interest to the new super-drama, which is considered by many to be the most absorbing of Louis Joseph Vance's narratives.

While Miss Vidor has been starred and featured in a number of successful productions during the past few years, no previous photoplay has afforded her a characterization nor a background comparable to "Beau Revel." Included in the action of the play are many wonderfully vivid scenes of New York's night life in the old days when Broadway was "wide open" and the whole tenderloin joined in an orgy of wine, women and song. "Beau Revel" was directed by John G. Wray, under the personal supervision of Thomas H. Ince. The support is practically of all-star caliber.

Miss Vidor is a niece of Mr. Chas. E. Dieterich former manager of De Nuzle of this city.

THE DEVIL IS COMING.

The devil is coming to Maysville. He is on his way now. As usual he is on the job, making toys of weak men and women. He twists the souls, breaks the faith, and wounds the hearts of men, women, wives, husbands, and sweethearts. He is the same devil the world over. This devil is a human being. That's how George Arliss portrays him in his screen debut of this, his greatest stage success; and the incomparable cast of Sylvia Breamer, Edmund Lowe, Lucy Cotton, Roland Bottomley and Mrs. Arliss add luster to this crowning achievement. See the devil at the Pastime Thursday.

SESSUE HAYAKAWA IN "LI TING LANG."

The great Japanese actor Sessue Hayakawa will appear at the Pastime Wednesday in "Li Ting Lang," a story of thrills and heart-throbs with the charm of an American college town and the mystery of the Orient as a background. See a battle to death with knives in which a man single-handed, defeats a band of oriental anarchists.

At the first meeting of the new County Commissioners held Tuesday, one of the first problems to be brought before that body will be the making of the local jail safe. First Meeting of New County Commissioners Held Tuesday—All Notes Against the County Are Ordered Paid at Beginning.

At the first meeting of the New Fiscal Court, the new County Commissioners cleaned the slate by ordering the chairmen of the various funds to draw their warrants to pay all notes and interest chargeable against the various funds.

Mr. John B. Furlong was chosen as chairman of the Road Committee, which means that all road improvements will be done under his direct command. Mr. Furlong was the local member of the Fiscal Court for this very important duty and will beyond question make the county a most efficient servant in this important phase of the county's affairs.

Mr. A. P. Bramel was chosen chairman of the Infirmary Fund, which means that the County Infirmary will be under his direct management. Mr. Bramel is well fitted for this duty and the citizens of the county can be assured that the poor will be well cared for during the next four years.

SCHOOL TAX RISE IN FOUR CITIES IS PLEA

Second Class Municipalities Call 65 Cent Levy Too Low for Maintenance.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 10. — Officials of the Covington Board of Education and of the Parent-Teacher Association and other educational organizations of that city are urging the passage of a bill to increase the maximum school tax permitted for second class cities from 65 to 95 cents on each $100.

Each member of the General Assembly has received a letter, a draft of a bill and a table showing the school taxes in various cities.

The table reveals that the cities of Covington, Lexington, Newport and Paducah, the only second class cities in the state, now are getting the full 65 cents and the claim is made that they are having difficulty in maintaining the school on this basis.

Maximum school tax rates for cities of other classes are: First class (Louisville), $1; third class, $1; fourth and fifth classes, $1.50.

The table shows that none of the third class cities and but few of the fourth and fifth classes are taxing for school purposes less than 65 cents and that most of them are finding it necessary to levy 75 cents or more.

FINAL PASSAGE OF POOL BILL EXPECTED TODAY

Sapiro to Explain Co-operative Marketing Plan at Joint Session of Assembly Today.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 9. — Announcement of committee by Speaker James H. Thompson, and second reading of the Senate bill to authorize the formation of the Co-operative Burley Growers' Marketing Association, were features of the House session today. The Bingham measure passed by the Senate last week, will become a law tomorrow, with its passage by the House and signature by Governor Edwin P. Morrow assured. Aaron Sapiro of California, marketing expert, will address a joint session of the General Assembly, explaining the workings of the plan, some time during the day.

In the Senate, rules of procedure were adopted. By a party vote of 19 to 15 the recommendation of the Rules Committee, putting it in power for the final 20 days of the session, instead of 15, as in previous sessions, was adopted.

Senator John A. Lee, of Owen county, who will introduce the anti-betting bill tomorrow, objected to a change in the rules, whereby the words "or pecuniarily" were stricken out from the provision which is designed to prevent a member from voting on a measure in which he has a "personal or private" interest. The additional word, "pecuniarily," is not in the constitution, for which reason the Rules Committee decided that it should not be in the rules of the Senate, which, it contended, should not go beyond the language of the state constitution.

NEW OFFICERS ORDER THEIR UNIFORMS.

Orders have been placed by the newly elected policemen with the Brady-Bouldin Company for their new uniforms and caps which are expected within a short time.

ONLY AN OLD HORSE

A few days ago an unostentatious item recorded the passing of an old gray horse. There was no funeral. The owners provided decent interment for the faithful brute and as far as the great world is concerned the incident was forgotten. When little fuss is made about the passing of human beings, it is little wonder that little was said about the passing of a horse, just a common ordinary gray horse. He had made no speed records on the turf. He had done nothing to get his name into the papers.

But when this old horse died, the woman who formerly owned him asked, "Can't you put a little item in the paper about my old gray horse? He was found dead in the pasture. He was in the family all his life. He was the same age as one of my boys. A few years ago we decided that he had earned the right to spend the rest of his days without work and for the last few years he had been left in the pasture."

Somhow it struck a sentimental chord to have someone ask to have mention made of the passing of a horse—just a common ordinary gray horse.

Wasn't he entitled to mention just as much as many people?

He never caused anyone any bother. He never made any complaint. When hitched to the plow he plugged away at the job until the driver unhitched the traces. If hitched to the buggy he sauntered into town and never thought to ask if the trip couldn't wait until some other day or if the load couldn't be divided and part left for someone else to bring. When started homeward he showed signs of pleasure at returning to the place where all he was expected to do was to work and where all he got in return was ample quantities of daily food.

He never pulled back in the traces. He never ran away. He was always willing. He grew up with one of the boys and he grandfathered all the colts. He was like one of the family.

Many men there are about whom the same things could not be said. Many men there are over whom the preacher would find it hard to preach that kind of a funeral sermon. Many men there are less worthy of a parting tear than this old horse which never planned for the future and never had to regret the past.

There are enough old plugs among the humans but there are few of whom it can be said, as it can be said of this old horse, that he was ever faithful, that he never shirked a task. Many a man there is of whom it can not even be said that he grew up with the children and seemed like one of the family.

Isn't a dumb brute like this more entitled to flowers than some who are toted to the burial plot in a benzine buggy and accompanied by a concourse of those left behind, there carefully laid away and a chiseled marble slab erected to mark the spot?

WHY WEAR SKIRTS?

The time was, and not very many years ago, when a woman attired in anything less than a dress that started just below the ears and ended on the ground was a rare curiosity and would attract the multitudes wherever she might go.

That was before the day of automobiles, airplanes and other like inventions which would at that time have attracted fully as much attention as a deviation from the straight and narrow in woman's dress.

With the development of new ideas in sanitation, with a greater desire for comfort, and with an idea towards convenience, there have come as many changes in woman's dress as in our mode of travel. A woman in semifitting men's clothes does not now attract half as much attention as did the woman in diaphanous, form-fitting hobbled clothes that wear once the rage.

It is a dangerous thing to make a prediction as to what women will wear—it is sometimes dangerous to make even a suggestion along that line in one's own family—but The Public Ledger will venture the prediction that the number who think a partial adoption of male clothing by women would be more modest and more sensible than have been woman's clothes of the past, will increase by the thousands every year and the number of women who assume the male clothing for outings, auto trips and the like will increase by the millions.

With the rapid strides woman is making in taking her place beside man we would not be greatly surprised if we lived long enough to see her discard the cumbersome skirt entirely. More startling things have happened in the past few years. What good reason can anyone advance why woman should stick to skirts?

IS ELECTRICITY AN ESSENTIAL COMMODITY?

If there is any doubt in the minds of American people today as to just how essential electrical development in this country is to industrial, commercial and transportation life just consider carefully what is being done by the Erie Railroad and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad in Pennsylvania and New York.

The D. L. & W. has been seeking estimates for the installation of electric motive power near Scranton. The work contemplated will cost between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. The Erie is considering the electrification of its lines in the hard-coal regions as a first step toward further installation of electric power, extending from Hornell, N. Y., to New York City. If the plans of the Erie are carried out between New York City and Hornell, it will be the longest stretch of electrified steam road in the country, and will shorten the distance between the two cities about fifty miles. The distance now is about 350 miles.

OVERWORKED PHILANTHROPY

A prominent financier with internationalistic tendencies says that if the United States should diet further disaster come to Europe it would be the death of us spiritually. We suppose that if this financier were standing on a dock and saw a half a dozen men jump overboard and refuse to try to swim, he would jump in and try to pull them out. For ourselves, we'd like to see some of them try real hard to help themselves.

This is one of the newest members of the well-known Ford family. It is the field runabout. It is a strong-limbed boy—eight wheels dividing the work done by four before. It is a tractor which Secretary of War Baker was much interested in at the army exhibit in Washington. The broad caterpillar belt gives it a very firm footing under all kinds of soil conditions.

A "balanced diet" may sound confusing to many people

The facts, as explained here, are simple.

The secret of a "balanced diet" is to have food containing all the elements needed for proper nutrition. These elements are protein, to nourish the tissues; starch and sugar to furnish energy; fat to supply heat; and mineral salts to provide the material necessary for building nerves, brain, and tooth and bone structure.

Grape-Nuts, the nourishing cereal made of whole wheat flour and malted barley, served with cream or milk, is a complete food for young and old alike.

Go to your grocer today and get a package of Grape-Nuts. Eat it with milk or cream for breakfast; or with stewed fruit, jelly or jam, as a delicious dessert for lunch or dinner.

Every member of the family will relish this palatable and nourishing food—

ACT QUICKLY

Do the right thing at the right time. Act quickly in time of danger. In time of kidney danger, Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective. Ask your neighbor.

Plenty of Maysville evidence of their worth. Fred Dresel, proprietor tailor shop, 1238 East Second street, Maysville, says: "I am glad of the opportunity to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled with inflammation of the bladder and annoyance from my kidneys. When passing the secretions they burned terribly and often bordered on a stoppage. I had severe aching pains across the small of my back which greatly interfered with my duties. I was telling a friend how my kidneys acted and he advised me to get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Wood & Son's Drug Store. I began taking Doan's and they gave me prompt relief. Doan's did me lots of good and I know they are an excellent remedy."

Mr. Dresel gave the above statement February 6, 1908, and on November 22, 1920, he added: "I think just as highly of Doan's Kidney Pills today as I did when I gave my former recommendation many years ago. My cure has been a lasting one."

Price 60 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for kidney remedy, ask for Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Dresel had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

mann who faithfully served the government for forty-seven years as head of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and is now disabled, he says:

"Imperialistic and military governments have always favored a pension system. Governments of this character furnish positions and sinecures to a large part of their population.

The pension system has always been a concomitant of monarchical and imperialistic governments. History is replete with examples of highly centralized government givingounties and largesses and pensions to a great number of people. The monarchies in the past surrounded themselves with courtiers and lords and nobles and military followers, all of whom fattened upon the people. Labor paid the burden of the tawdry and tinsel show of kings and monarchies, and bowed restraints which wrung from the tolling masses enormous sums to meet the demands of pensioners who were the objects of kingly and imperial favor. Those who toiled carried upon their backs a considerable proportion of the population of the state, who, though they did not toil, neither did they spin, yet were arrayed in glory and lived in affluence and luxury.

"The civil pensions and military pensions and bounties and gifts from the Government find their origin in highly centralized and imperialistic states. They are not consistent with democracy and are not the products of democratic governments. Monarchical government seeks to build up a privileged class, and the privileged class controls the Government, fills positions of honor and trust and emolument, directs the military establishments, and determines the policies of the state.

"The pension lists of Louis XIV and Charles I., of despots and monarchs of the past, called for heavy burdens of taxation and imposed conditions of servitude upon a large part of the population. We seem to be aping the imperialistic policies of the past. By legislation we are providing privileged classes and granting benefits, special in character, to a portion of our population. Fiscal and revenue legislation has been enacted in the interest of special classes. By legislation we have sought to divide the people into classes and to create a class conscience and to divide the people into sections and groups.

"De denounce the maintenance of large standing armies, because it compels each taxpayer to carry a soldier upon his back, and yet we legislate in favor of pensions and in favor of various interests, as a result of which the farmer and the laborer—the ones who toil and dig and serve and build—are compelled to carry a pensioner, or one who profits by special legislation and by Government privilege.

"A pension system will follow a civil-service policy. The theory of our father of rotation in office has been abandoned. Our officeholders in the main are to be persons who have a life tenure. The spirit of the Democratic theory of Government is becoming obsolete. Offices are not for the masses, but for the favored few, who are to be protected by civil-service statutes. The operation of the civil-service law in the Federal Government, in my opinion, has not proven satisfactory."

"HE'S IN AGAIN, OFFICER!"

Izzy is at it again! If you lived in New York City you would know about Izzy by this time. His full name—but by the way, he never, never gets full—is Izzy Einstein. He is a demon prohibition officer. He disguises himself as a trombone one day—and perhaps as a hot dog the next—but he generally returns with the bacon.

His latest (when this was written) was disguising himself and two companions as milk wagon drivers. They wandered into nine different saloons in one section of New York City and called for milk punches—just to be true to their calling. When the bartenders told them they could not make up the milk punches, but could give them a little of the real stuff—straight

New York.—Not everyone who pays subway fares rides in the subway in New York. Those underground passageways serve more than one purpose. The really experienced New Yorker has learned how to thread his way under our streets and buildings for several blocks at a time in rainy weather when dryness is more desired than daylight, and he accomplishes scores of business errands that way which would otherwise take his several minutes walk on the streets above. He is perfectly willing to pay his nickel to walk on the subway platforms at such times. Maybe we'll become a race of moles in time just because someone devised underground travel.

Some one from the transit commission has been watching the passing show at our busiest corner, Fifth avenue and Forty-second street, with pencil and notebook in hand, and the results of his findings are interesting. Here is what passed the corner every minute during the afternoon rush: 243 pedestrians; 4 Fifth avenue buses; 35 motor cars; and two and a half trolley cars. During two hours the total number of pedestrians was 35,149; total vehicles, 4,617; and surface cars, 304.

Mme. Petrova in "The White Peacock" is one of the interest-centers of Broadway this new year. Very good to look upon and decidedly clever, she is given exceptional opportunity for her powers of emotional acting in this Spanish romance. Her role is that of a cold, disillusioned wife, who believes she could no longer love any man. An escape convict—wrongfully accused, of course, proves that she is quite mistaken in this regard and after a remarkably well-done bit of intrigue, in which she secures evidence of the convict's innocence through pretending to be her husband's mistress instead of his wife, the story unfolds itself to a happy ending. Melodrama?

Yes, I suppose so, but well done and true drama, as well.

It is more than disconcerting to have one's guests interrupted during a lecture on The Italian Renaissance and Modern Art by a crude landlady throwing open one's door and yelling "Why don't you pay your rent?" Leo Mielziner, portrait painter and secretary of the Salamagundi Club insists, in fact, that such brusqueness amounts to an infraction of the peace and he accordingly brought his landlady into court on a charge of disorderly conduct for such an entrance to his studio apartment at 16 West Tenth street. In spite of the fact, the artist explained, that he asked Mrs. Bevans, the landlady in question, to have her lawyer see his lawyer over the little matter of finance, she remained obdurate in the middle of his party while the Renaissance almost slipped from the guests' memories. She even spoke of fusing force. The case was held over by the judge for further consideration on the point of where rent collecting leaves off and social intrusion begins.

The unvarying sameness of whole blocks of New York houses was too much for MacDara Lyden, late of Ireland who has been only one week in this country. MacDara is visiting his brother, Patrick, and has had a good visit of it, too, until the other evening when he went out along for a stroll late in the evening. He returned and found the house dark and the family apparently all asleep. So quietly he slipped upstairs and began to undress for bed. Unfortunately this process was pretty well progressed before he heard a cry of "Burglars!"—and in a voice not at all like any in his brother's family. Almost instantly a bulky form with an air of being a house-owner appeared in the bedroom door. It was most certainly not brother Patrick. MacDara waited for no reasoning of clothes but sped downstairs and into the street. He managed to convey the true tale of the situation to a brotherly policeman and eventually was safely home in his brother's home. The next day, his clothes were obtained from the strange house, but he is hardly leaving home enough to need them.

GRADE CROSSINGS TO BE ELIMINATED ON FEDERAL HIGHWAYS

Federal Highway Act Provides that Grade Crossings be Eliminated Where At All Possible.

Washington, D. C. — The grade crossing must go and they will be eliminated wherever possible on the roads of the Federal Aid Highway System, which will be built as a result of the passage of the Federal Highway Act. When the roads which form the primary or interstate system are constructed, no grade crossing will be allowed to remain that it is at all practicable to avoid. Every effort will be made to make the roads of the secondary system equally safe, but in this case it is recognized that elimination may not be practicable in all cases at this time.

In making this announcement the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, under whose supervision the fund it allotted and construction is undertaken, is putting into effect a policy which it has long advocated in principle, and whose adoption it has urged with increasing effectiveness upon state highway officials for some time past. The policy is meeting with hearty cooperation on the part of the states, and the American Association of State Highway Officials by resolution has pledged its best efforts to cooperate to eliminate grade crossings on new construction.

In addition, the policy finds favor among the railroads, some of the leading carriers already having lent cheerful aid in avoiding the construction of more grade crossings.

Instead of grade crossings, there will be constructed, wherever possible in the future either a bridge or an underpass where roadway and railway intersect. Important roads, which now cross and recross railroad lines at grades hereafter will be located entirely on one side of the railroad, even though to do so may increase the cost of construction. State officials, realizing the need of eliminating the grade crossings, have stated their desire to cooperate with the department in carrying out this plan.

Where crossings are unavoidable, or where local interests justify construction of highways to cross railroad lines, the road will be so located as to pass over the track or under it. In most instances of this sort the railroads bear one-half of the cost of building the bridge or underpass.

The prime object of the department's policy to eliminate grade crossings on Federal-aid roads is the saving of human lives. This policy probably will involve increased expense of construction in the case of some roads but it is believed this is justified by the saving of life. During the three years ending with 1920, according to the best records available to the department, 3,636 lives were lost at grade crossings in the United States and 10,644 persons were injured.

HEALTH FORNIGHT IS PROCLAIMED BY GOVERNOR

Governor Morrow sets aside Period From January Thirtieth to February Twelfth for Health Celebration.

Frankfort, Ky. — Health fortnight, from January 30 to February 12, was proclaimed recently by Governor Edwin P. Morrow. In his proclamation, Governor Morrow says that as 60 per cent. of the illness and 40 per cent. of the deaths in Kentucky are due to preventable causes, every man, woman and child in the state should consider it their duty to attend the National Health Exposition in Louisville February 1 to 9. The exposition is to be given under the direction of the United States Public Health Service, the State Board of Health and city and county health boards and during it, the United States Public Health Service will hold its national institute in Louisville.

The proclamation in full follows: Whereas, the National Health Exposition will be held at Louisville, Ky., February 1-9, 1922, under the joint auspices of the United States Public Health Service, Kentucky State Board of Health, Jefferson County Health Department, Health Department of the City of Louisville, National Health Exposition Association, the Louisville Women's City Club and various state and national organizations; and,

Whereas, the purpose of this Exposition is self education of all the people through visual lessons in the prevention of disease and the means to comfort and happiness; and,

Whereas, this Exposition, occupying sixty thousand square feet of floor space, utilizing five thousand volunteer participants in demonstrations and activities, and displaying more than two million dollars' worth of scientific equipment and commodities which promote the health and happiness of the people, will be the greatest and most instructive Exposition ever witnessed in Kentucky; and,

Whereas, reputable health authorities assure us 60 per cent. of the illness and 40 per cent. of the deaths in Kentucky are due to preventable causes, and this situation may be by a large measure relieved by definite individual interest in health matters;

Now, Therefore, I, Edwin P. Morrow, as Governor of the great state of Kentucky, hereby designate the period January 30th to February 12th, 1922, as Health Fortnight in Kentucky and recommend the attendance of every citizen at this Exposition, February 1-9, 1922, and at the conference, held by the United States Public Health Service Institute commencing January 30th, 1922.

And, I call upon every organization and every individual in Kentucky to co-operate in this magnificent enterprise that it may yield extraordinary dividends in health, happiness, satisfaction in living, prevention of sorrow, prevention of pain, prevention of discontent, and prevention of industrial unrest.

Given under my hand and under the seal of the State of Kentucky, this 2nd day of January, 1922, in the city of Frankfort. EDWIN P. MORROW, Governor.

WHO HAS SEEN

A VITAMINE!

No One, Says Science. They Work Like Magic, Unthought By the Eye—Necessary To Life.

Vitamines are known to be real things and indispensable parts of our daily food, yet no person has ever set eyes on one.

Apparently, there has never been given a better definition of those mysterious elements than given by a learned scientist, who recently said:

"Vitamines are to food what our souls are to our bodies. They are there. They do things. But we can not see them."

Ever since creation man has been eating citamines, but didn't realize it until very recent years. The study of vitamins has become important because, through knowledge of them, many horrible diseases are being cured.

Scientists agree that the invisible vitamins supply a certain need of the body that is necessary to life itself. But they disagree on just what that need is.

Many agree that vitamins supply the body with certain necessary chemical units which the body is unable to manufacture. Others regard them as stimulants, as they seem to exert a stimulating influence upon the various activities of the body. Still others have other opinions, and in the end the general public regards all their theories as only intelligent guess work.

There are three kinds of vitamins, fat-soluble A, water-soluble B, and water-soluble C.

A is found mainly in milk, butter, eggs, spinach, carrots, sweet potatoes, kidney fat, cod-liver oil, yellow corn, and tomatoes.

B is mostly confined to yeast, wheat, germs, and milk.

C is confined mostly in citrus fruits, such as oranges, lemons and lemons, fresh cabbage, tomatoes, onions, green apples, lettuce, and green peas. This data, of course, is limited, as no full tables have been prepared up to the present time.

Anyone whose regular diet contains a good balance of A, B and C vitamins is said to be pretty sure of good health. Only one or two of them is not sufficient.

Lack of one of the three is known to have produced scurvy, beri-beri, rickets, pellagra, and even blindness. Any persons who are not fortunate enough to have the advantage of an all-winter supply of garden and orchard fruits and vegetables containing the proper vitamins, should remember that science has been able to offer vitamins in condensed form so that they may be easily eaten to supplement regular foods.

WINTER AND SPRING BEST TIME TO PRUNE.

Farmers may prune their fruit trees safely during any part of the dormant season, except freezing weather, giving preference to late winter and early spring, according to recommendations made by orchard specialists at the College of Agriculture to Kentucky farmers who have inquired as to the best time to do this work. Young trees, which were planted in the fall, can be pruned best in the spring, the specialists say.

"When old apple trees need thinning and heading back, it is advisable to thin one year and head back the next," H. R. Niswonger, orchard specialist at the college said. "All dead and diseased branches should be removed and burned the first year. In removing laterals, it is best to cut close to the main branch in order to eliminate stubs. It is a good practice to cover all large cuts with grafting wax to prevent entrance of disease."

The pruning of this kind should be done in the late fall or early spring.

consist in correcting crowded conditions of the lower part by removing small branches, especially those that contain old, worn out fruit spurs. Heavy pruning by cutting out large limbs encourages wood growth near the cut end the following season and reduces production the second year. The removal of large limbs on the lower part and in the center of the tree opens large holes which admit too much sunlight.

"Heading back the main limbs by cutting to a side branch which points down and out will tend to lower the tree top, and make spraying and harvesting of the fruit easier. Heading back by completely removing large upright branches is to be condemned because this treatment opens the top of the trees.

"It is difficult to rejuvenate old neglected peach trees satisfactorily, but those which are healthy and vigorous may be renewed by rather severe cutting back. The tall branches should be cut back to laterals and as much as three or four years of growth removed if necessary. Crowded lateral branches may be thinned and the central ones cut back to encourage renewal of the bearing wood."

KEEPING IT IN THE FAMILY.

Owing to the slack times in New York City a man keeping a small retail store was forced to go out of business. His brother-in-law is a member of the prohibition forces cleaning up the big city. The merchant consulted with him on how he could make a living and what business he should go into. On the prohibition officer's advice the merchant became a bootlegger and former customers, who would not buy from him once upon a time, keep him busy day and night filling orders. Where does he get the goods to fill them with? Isn't that a foolish question when it was explicitly stated above that he went into the boot-legging game on his brother-in-law's advice and said brother-in-law belongs to the department enforcing prohibition.

MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS

Read This Letter from Mrs. W. S. Hughes

Greenville, Del. — "I was under the impression that my eldest daughter had some internal trouble as ever since the first time her sickness appeared she had to go to bed and even had to quit school once for a week. I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself so I gave it to her and she has received great benefit from it. You can use this letter for a testimonial if you wish, as I cannot say too much about what your medicine has done for me and for my daughter." — Mrs. Wm. S. Hughes, Greenville, Delaware.

Mothers and oftentimes grandmothers have taken and have learned the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So they recommend the medicine to others.

The best test of any medicine is what it has done for others. For nearly fifty years we have published letters from mothers, daughters, and women, young and old, recommending the Vegetable Compound. They know what it did for them and are glad to tell others. In your own neighborhood are women who know of its great value.

Mothers—daughters, why not try it?

DE VALERA FAILS OF RE-ELECTION BY CLOSE VOTE

President of Irish Republic Is Defeated for Re-Election by Vote of Sixty to Fifty-Eight.

Dublin, Jan. 9. — Ireland tonight is without a government of its own. Eamon De Valera resigned from the presidency and the proposal for his re-election to that office, which includes the office of premier, was defeated in the Dail Eireann by a vote of 60 to 58.

Mr. De Valera made it clear that all the members of the ministry whether they voted for or against the treaty, went out of office with him.

Least there should be any doubt, William Cosgrave, Minister of Local Government, who he said was sending out letters daily from his department to Irish public bodies, asked if all that was to stop. De Valera replied that it must stop until the successors of the former Ministers were appointed.

The vote on De Valera's re-election was doubtful until the figures were announced. The London delegates, who signed the treaty, were divided, four of them voting against De Valera, and one, Robert C. Barton, in his favor. Mr. De Valera himself refrained from voting, while Liam Rusbide, member for Cork City, when his name was called, said he would not take the responsibility for plunging Ireland into fratricidal strife.

Cheering followed the announcement of the figures. Both Griffith and Collins were quick to pay tribute of admiration to Mr. De Valera, while the whole Assembly arose and applauded him.

A noteworthy feature of Mr. De Valera's later statement was that talk of fratricidal strife was all nonsense. The Irish people would know how to conduct themselves.

GRIFFITH HEADS DAIL EIREANN.

Dublin, Jan. 10. — Arthur Griffith was elected president of the Dail Eireann today.

The foreign minister under Samon De Valera will head a provisional government to arrange for establishment of the Irish free state.

Whether Griffith also will assume the presidency of the Irish republic will be thrashed out in the Dail later.
